Start Here: Your Art Deco Black-Tie Wedding Website

Thank you for choosing BKE Studio. This guide takes you from this PDF to a live wedding website that your guests open on their phones. Keep this file: it is the only one you need.

Good to know before you begin

• You do not need Canva, an app or an account. Everything works in the web browser of your phone or computer.

• You fill in your website yourself, in a simple editor. Every change saves by itself.

• Nobody sees your website until you publish it, and you can keep changing it after you publish.

• Your guests need no app and no account either: they open your link and tap the gatefold.

Start now: the first 5 steps

1. Open your start link: Start your Art Deco Black-Tie website. Or scan this QR code with your phone camera.

2. Enter your Etsy order number, your email address and your first names. Check the website address, then tap Create my website.

3. Save your edit link. Tap Copy link and paste it into your notes app, or tap Email it to myself. Do this before anything else.

4. Tap Open my editor. Add your first names and your wedding date (setup step 1 of 3).

5. Add one photo (step 2 of 3). Publish now (step 3 of 3), or later when everything is ready.

Save your edit link: it is your key

Your edit link opens your editor. There is no password and no account: the link is the key. We cannot email it to you yet, so please save it yourself, in at least one of these ways:

• Tap Copy link and paste it into your notes app or password manager.

• Tap Email it to myself. Your own email app opens with the link inside. Tap Send.

• Once your editor is open, add it to your phone's Home Screen (from your browser's Share or menu button).

Missed it? While your editor is open, you can copy the link again: Share → Your private edit link → Copy edit link.

Anyone who has the link can change your website, so share it only with your partner. We will never ask you for it. If you lose it, message BKE Studio on Etsy with your order number. We send you a new link, and the old one stops working.

Step 1. Start your website

Open the start link. At the top you see a small live demo of your design (Open the full demo shows it full size). Below it, fill in Your details:

• Etsy order number: in your Etsy order confirmation email, or on Etsy under Purchases and reviews. It has 8 to 12 digits. You can type it with or without "#".

• Email address: we keep it with your website so we can recognize you if you need help. We do not send emails yet.

• Your first names: as your guests know you. You can change them later in the editor.

• Website address: made from your names, for example …/avery-and-jordan. "Available" means it is free. You can change it here, but not later, so check the spelling.

Tap Create my website. One order starts one website. Your website starts as a private draft: nobody can see it until you publish.

If your connection drops, tap Create my website again: you get your link back. If the page says your order already has a website, open it with your saved edit link, or message us on Etsy.

Step 2. Set up in three steps

The editor starts with a short setup. The bar at the top shows Step 1 of 3. On steps 1 and 2, Skip for now sits next to Continue; Save & exit works at any time. Everything is saved.

1. Your names and date. Your two first names, then the wedding date and the ceremony time. The Time zone of the wedding comes from your phone; tap Change if the wedding is in another time zone. Full names for the invitation card are optional. One line says how often you can change your names or date after you publish; Learn more explains what is always free.

2. Add your photo. One photo is enough to start: it opens your website. The editor tells you how many more photo places your design has; add them any time under Edit → Photos. Until then guests see a soft placeholder image.

3. Publish your website. Check the summary and the preview, read Good to know before you publish, then tap Publish my website. Or come back later: Home shows how ready your website is.

How your names appear, the monogram (if your design shows one) and the date style (Month first or Day first) are not part of the setup: you find them later under Edit.

If your date is still the design's sample date, the editor asks you to set your real date first.

When your website is live, Your website is live shows your link with Copy link, Open website and, on a phone, Share. The QR code for printed cards is under More ways to share. Next, if you like suggests a few optional next steps, and Go to my editor takes you to Home.

If your editor says "We are confirming your Etsy order"

We check each order in our Etsy shop before a website can go live. You can set up everything now; it is all saved. Publish opens as soon as your order is confirmed (usually within [ORDER CHECK TIME]). We tell you on Etsy; then reload your editor page. If it takes longer, message us on Etsy with your order number.

Step 3. Edit your website

Use the buttons at the bottom of the screen (at the top on a computer):

• Home: your website's status and link, how ready it is, the next things to do, new replies and your dates (Wedding, Replies close, Online until). Under Settings you see your time zone, date style, name and date changes left and guest password; tap a row to change it.

• Edit: six pages with everything on your website.

• Guests: your guests' replies.

• Share: your link, QR code, guest password and your private edit link.

Edit page	What you change
Us	First names, full names for the invitation card, how your names appear, monogram (if your design shows one)
Day & place	Date and ceremony time (time zone, date style and countdown under More options); venue, address, map link, map and directions, a reception place and venue photo; the order of the day (up to 10 rows); After the wedding
Photos	Invitation portrait, three story photos and the venue photo
Our Story	Show or hide the page, an intro line, a caption for each story moment, music and sound effects
Details	Host line, dress code, travel & stay and registry links, guest policy note (in some designs), up to 12 questions and answers
RSVP	Replies on or off, reply-by date, the reply form: which fields are required and up to 10 questions of your own

Your own wording. At the end of every Edit page, open Headings & labels on this page. There you can rewrite the design's texts in your own words, for example "You are invited", "Will You Join Us?" or the menu. Leave a box empty to keep the design's text; Reset to design text brings it back. On Us you can also pick suggested wording for a vow renewal, an elopement party or a commitment ceremony. Wording changes never use a name or date change.

What stays as designed: the artwork, colors, fonts, page layout and the gatefold animation.

Sample text. Boxes that still hold the design's sample text look faded (in italics, with a dashed border), and the top of the page says how many are left, for example "3 fields still show sample text". Tap Go to the first one and type your own text before you share your website. Home lists what is left.

Saving. There is no Save button: every change saves as you type. Saved shows for a moment at the top, then a small cloud icon stays. If you are offline, your changes are kept on this phone and saved when you are back online; wait until it says saved before you close the page. If the editor says your website was changed on another device, reload the page to get the latest version.

Step 4. Add and crop photos

Open Edit → Photos, choose a frame and tap Add photo. Drag to move the photo, zoom with the slider or two fingers, then tap Use this photo. Each frame has its own shape. You can replace or remove a photo any time.

JPG, PNG, WebP, AVIF and HEIC photos up to 30 MB work. If a photo will not open, save a JPEG copy of it and choose that.

No photos yet? Your website still works: empty frames show the design's soft placeholder image, and you can hide the Our Story page. Add your own photos before you share if you do not want guests to see placeholders.

Map and directions

Open Edit → Day & place → Venue. Type the street address, or paste a Google Maps or Apple Maps link to the place into Map link. Below it, Map & directions has two switches:

• Show map: guests see a card with the place and tap Show map to load Google Maps. Nothing loads from Google before that tap.

• Show directions: guests get directions with Google Maps, Apple Maps or Waze.

The editor shows what guests' maps will find (the pin of your link, or your address); tap Preview map to check it. Is the reception somewhere else? Tap Add a reception place and add its name, address and map link: guests then see both places. Remove this place takes it away again.

Music and sound

Open Edit → Our Story and scroll to Music & sound at the end of the page.

• Story music: choose one of four tracks made for your website (First Light, Garden Waltz, Evening Strings, Music Box; one is marked as suggested for your design), Your own music or No music. Tap Listen to hear it.

• Your own music: tap Choose a file and upload an MP3 or M4A file of up to 10 MB. Only upload music you have the right to use (your own recording or a licence that allows it).

• Sound effects: soft sounds when guests open the gatefold, move between pages and send their reply. Turn it off for a quiet website.

Guests hear the music softly on your Our Story page (no Our Story page, no music). A small sound button at the top left of every page turns the sound off or on. Some phones wait for a tap before music starts: then guests see a "Play music" button.

Step 5. Preview and publish

Tap the eye icon at the top to preview your pages: Gatefold, Home, Story, Details and RSVP. Gatefold is the opening page, where guests tap the gatefold. The X at the top closes the preview. On a computer the preview stays on the right.

First publish: tap Publish. Before you publish lists anything guests would still see from the design (sample text, photo places without a photo, sections without a link). Tap an item to fix it, or tap Publish my website and fix it later. Then Your website is live shows your link with Copy link, Open website and, on a phone, Share; the QR code is under More ways to share. You find both again under Share at any time.

After that: your changes save to a draft, and guests see the last version you published. When you change something, a bar shows Unpublished changes. Tap Review to see which pages changed (the eye next to a page previews it), then Publish changes (or tap Publish in the bar).

Name and date changes after publishing

Before your first publish you can change everything freely. After it:

• You have 3 changes in total for your names, monogram and wedding date. Changing several at once counts as one.

• Always free: fixing a small typo (up to 2 letters in a name), adding a surname, and moving your date by up to 7 days.

• Changed something by mistake? Undo it right away (before you publish it, or within 10 minutes) and you get the change back.

• Everything else (time, venue, schedule, story, photos, details, wording and replies) you can change as often as you like.

Your names and date show with a Change button and the changes you have left on the Us and Day & place pages. The editor tells you before you confirm whether a change is free. If your wedding moves and you have no changes left, message us on Etsy with your order number.

Step 6. Share your website

Open Share:

• Your website link: Copy it and send it by text, WhatsApp or email, or tap Open to see it as a guest. Most messaging apps show a preview card with your names and date; send it to yourself first to check.

• QR code for printed cards (shown once your website is live): tap it to open, then Download PNG or Download SVG. Scan it once with your phone camera before you print.

• Your website is not listed on Google. Only people with your link or QR code can open it.

Guest password (optional). Open Guest password and turn on Password protect your website. Type a password of 4 to 40 characters (capital letters do not matter) or tap Suggest a password, then Turn on password. Use Copy password to send it with your link. It is one shared password for all guests, not a login for each person. Guests type it once; their browser remembers it. If you change it, guests are asked for the new one. Turned off, anyone with the link can open your website.

Take the website offline (at the bottom of Share) hides your website from guests: they see "Page not found" until you publish again. Your text, photos and replies are kept.

Step 7. Guest replies

What guests do: on your RSVP page they enter their name, whether they are coming, how many people (up to 10 in one reply), the names of the others (optional), a message and your questions. They need no account, and an email address is optional unless you make it required. To change their answer, they send another reply.

Reply form. In Edit → RSVP, the reply form shows what guests fill in. Their name and whether they are coming are Always required. Email and the message can be Required or Optional. Under Your questions, tap Add a question (up to 10, for example a meal choice) and pick the answer type: Choices, Yes / No, Short answer, Long answer or Number. Each question can be required or optional too. Guests who are coming answer your questions. Changing or removing a question later keeps the answers you already have.

What you do: open Guests (not Edit → RSVP, which changes the form). It has two views:

• Guest list: how many guests are coming and not coming, then every reply. Search by name, or tap All, Coming, Not coming or New to filter. Tap a reply to see everyone in it, their answers and their message.

• Results: how many replies say coming and not coming, and the answers to your questions, each with a number and a percentage. Tap a line to see who is in it.

In the Guest list you can also:

• Download Excel (at the bottom of the screen) to save every reply and a summary in one Excel file. It opens in Excel, Numbers and Google Sheets too. Download CSV saves a plain list, one row per person.

• Add a reply you got by phone or in person. On each reply, Edit reply corrects it and Remove reply deletes it.

• Print list, or save it as a PDF from your browser's print menu.

• Refresh to load new replies.

Google Sheets (optional): in Guests, tap Connect Google Sheets and allow access in Google. Your editor makes a spreadsheet in your own Google Drive and adds every new reply by itself; the columns follow your reply form. Google lets it see only the files it makes, nothing else in your Drive. Open sheet opens it, Sync now updates it at once, and Disconnect stops it (the spreadsheet stays in your Drive). If you see "Google Sheets: coming soon", this connection is not switched on yet: use Download Excel instead.

We do not send email notifications yet: new replies show on Home and under New, where Mark as seen clears them. Replies that arrive in an unusual rush go to Held: they are not counted until you tap Keep this reply.

Replies close at the end of your reply-by date, in your wedding's time zone. To close earlier, turn off Accept replies on the website in Edit → RSVP.

Step 8. After the wedding

Open Edit → Day & place → After the wedding and choose a Thank-you mode:

• Automatic: your website becomes a thank-you page at midnight after your wedding day (wedding time zone).

• On now: it shows right after you publish.

• Off: keeps the invitation.

Add a title, a message and a photo if you like, preview it and publish. In thank-you mode, replies close and the countdown and calendar buttons disappear. Your replies stay in Guests. Under The Day page, choose Keep it (schedule and venue as a keepsake) or Hide it.

How long your website stays online

Your website stays online until 12 months after your wedding date. Home → Dates → Online until shows the exact day, and Home reminds you 30 days before. After that it closes for guests; in your editor you can still see your content and download your replies. Longer hosting: [EXTENSION POLICY].

Quick answers

Can my partner edit too? Yes. Share the edit link with your partner only.

Can I use a computer? Yes. The editor works on a computer too, with the preview beside it.

Can I change the website address? No, it is fixed when you create your website. Your own domain (yournames.com) is not included.

Can I change colors or fonts? No. You change the content and the wording; the design stays as made.

Can it be in my language? You can write your own texts and the design's headings in any language. Some built-in messages, such as reply form errors, stay in English. Western European accents (such as é, ñ and ü) use the design's fonts; some other accented letters (for example in Polish, Czech or Turkish) and other alphabets show in a simpler fallback font. Preview every page.

How many guests can I invite? As many as you like. One reply can include up to 10 people.

Can guests see each other's replies? No. Only you see them, in your private editor.

Can I start a second website with my order? No. One order starts one website.

Is there music? Yes, if you like: soft music on your Our Story page (see Music and sound above). Choose No music to turn it off.

Is there a printed invitation or a save the date? No.

Troubleshooting

Guests cannot see my changes. Tap Review, then Publish changes. Then reload your website.

The Publish button does not work. Check your internet connection. Then read the message near the button: your order may still be being confirmed, your date may still be the sample date, or a field needs fixing (the editor shows which one).

"This edit link no longer works." A new link may have replaced it, or only part of the link was copied. Use the newest link we sent you, or message us on Etsy.

"This order already has a website." Open your website with your saved edit link. No link? Message us on Etsy with your order number.

My photo will not upload. Try a JPEG copy of the photo, and check your connection.

The editor says I am offline or changes are not saved. Wait until your connection is back and it says saved before you close the page.

A guest cannot open my website. Check that Home says your website is live, that the link is complete, and whether the guest password is on.

The QR code does not scan. Download it again from Share and print it larger, with white space around it. Always scan a printed proof before printing all cards.

Guests hear no music. Some phones wait for a tap: guests tap "Play music". Check that your Our Story page is shown and a track is chosen under Music & sound.

Google Sheets says "Sync failed". Tap Sync now. If it shows Connect again, tap it and allow access in Google again.

The countdown or calendar time is wrong. Check Time zone of the wedding in Edit → Day & place → More options (or tap Time zone under Settings on Home).

Help and privacy

In your editor, Help & questions at the bottom of Home answers the most common questions.

Message BKE Studio on Etsy (in the conversation of your order), or write to bkestudio@gmail.com. We reply within 24 hours. Please include your order number, your website address, what you see (a screenshot helps) and your phone and browser. Never send your edit link: we never need it.

Prefer us to do it? Send us your details on Etsy and we enter them for you, as a separate Etsy purchase.

Your guests' replies are visible only in your private editor, not on your website. Privacy notice: https://davetiye-platform-five.vercel.app/privacy.

The design's sample names, dates, places and photos are fictional. Replace them before you share your website.
